Election night triggered a change on the Atlantic County Board of Chosen Freeholders. Challenger Colin Bell, an attorney from Atlantic City beat out two term Freeholder Frank Giordano of Mays Landing for the at large seat on the county's governing body by 3,767 votes; 47,852 to 44,085. While Giordano's exit will not cause the Republicans to lose their majority on the freeholders' board, Bell will become the second Democrat when he takes the oath of office in January, joining Charles Garrett.
